Permanent Link to 4 Galileo satellites fueled for July 25 launch
2021/06/06

Technicians in SCAPE (Self Contained Atmospheric Protection Ensemble) suits fill Galileo satellites 22-26 with hydrazine fuel. (Photo: ESA) Europe's next four Galileo satellites have been fueled at Europe's Spaceport in Kourou, French Guiana, in preparation for their launch on July 25, according to the European Space Agency (ESA). The four satellites were placed into their protective containers to be transported from the S1A processing building to the S3B payload preparation building, where they were filled with the hydrazine fuel that will keep the satellites manoeuvrable during their 12-year working lives. The next step is to fit the quartet onto the dispenser that holds them in place securely during launch and then releases them into space once the upper stage of the Ariane 5 rocket reaches its 22,922-kilometer-altitude target orbit. After that, the satellites plus dispenser will be fitted onto the upper stage then enclosed by the two sides of the protective launch fairing — one of which has had the mission logo added to it. Meanwhile, the Ariane 5 for this launch (Flight VA244) has undergone assembly inside the Spaceport's Launcher Integration Building. Galileo's Flight VA244 mission logo is attached to the Ariane 5 fairing ahead of the July 25 four-satellite launch. (Photo: ESA)
